Honors to Blaine.

The ovation given to Blaine in New York must have made him feel prouder than had he been nominated President. Can Cleveland stir New York as Blaine did? Hardly.

"We sell twenty-two American flag handkerchiefs to one bandana," said a well-known Fulton-street merchant yesterday. "I'm a Democrat," he added, "and I don't understand it. Isn't this a Democratic town any longer? Why, even my own party seems ashamed of them."—N. Y. Tribune.

Causes of Late Trains.

Assistant Division Supt., D. Burkhalter was in town today. When asked what made the trains so late lately, he replied that there were several reasons.

There is so much travel that passenger trains had to run in two and three sections and it was impossible to make schedule time with these late trains; that the meeting places for these trains were far apart and long waits were necessary; lately there had been a scarcity of water on the other side of mountains.

When the road was first built it was impossible to foresee the present amount of business for the road and places for trains to meet were far apart.

The company are about putting in some new sidings, one at Camp 3 one at Yuba Pass, and sidings at Emigrant Gap and Sandy Run will be lengthened.

The traffic of the railroad was simply immense. Up to August 1st, 909 cars of fruit had been sent East.

Last season the whole number amounted to only 1400. This year will show a large increase.—Truckee Republican.

A Los Angeles Tragedy.

Some months ago Zach Fields, of Genoa, was charged with poisoning the water in his father-in-law's blacksmith shop. On the preliminary examination he proved an alibi.

On Friday last in Los Angeles he shot his wife—the daughter of William Gray, of Genoa—and then killed himself. He shot his wife in the right breast and she is still alive. He shot himself between the eyes and died instantly. Mr. Gray went down to Los Angeles on Sunday to see his daughter, who may recover.

Insanity is ascribed as the cause of Field's act.

Ormsby House Arrivals.

The following is the list of people who arrived at the Ormsby House yesterday:

A. F. Knop and wife, S. F.
S. J. Maguire "
Ed. C. Landes, "
D. F. Enstes, "
H. Bownson Smith, "
J. H. Berghauer, "
F. M. Buonhau, City.
E. J. Trimmer, Vairview.
L. Dora, Redding.
C. L. Batcheller and wife, Los Angeles.
Miss Rose Tobenor, Gold Hill.
C. F. Chatterto, Brunswick.

A Delegate's Return.

Evan Williams, one of Nevada's delegates to the Chicago Convention, returned Sunday and his broad and familiar face was seen at the Bank yesterday.

He is full of confidence in Harrison and the Republican party, and says that every day that passes gives additional strength to the ticket, which is now a certain winner in November.

He is in fine health, and glad to get back to Nevada.

al,lm NELSON BRUTTE.

—Sam Wright came back from the Bay on Saturday. He says Democrats are still falling in line with the Republicans of San Francisco and the big Democratic torchlight procession down there, represented as having 5000 men in line, had a trifle over 2200 by count.

He was presented with a $100 bull pup by some member of the United Undertakers Association in San Francisco and values it very highly —$500.

Down with the Traders.

The Austin Reyelle has the following; it is good sense:

"I tell you it is not always popularity," remarked one of the old standby voters, "that carries the day. I've known men who were exceedingly popular in the country, much more so than their opponent, but who were slaughtered by trading in their own party. A man who trades his party for his own election should be tabooed by the voters and given a regular Waterloo the next changes that is offered. At the last election there was much of this underhanded business going on, but it will not be healthy for anyone to try it and get caught, because the mass of the voters have a long memory and do not forgive very readily. I like to see a straight open fight and then when a man is beaten he knows it is a fair deal and the fortune of politics, which he must take. Let us have a square fight from top to bottom of the ticket."

Where Cleveland is Popular.

The English press continues to maul away at General Harrison and the Republican party and applaud Grover Cleveland. The London News makes the following point: "The man whom the Republicans have chosen will not win. His name has been received with laughter. Mr. Cleveland's election is practically certain. He has helped to purify the civil service, has dignified the foreign policy, and has, above all, made himself the propagator of free trade principles." People had not observed out West that Democrats are convulsed with "laughter." Then comes the Birmingham Post and says "we are to some extent directly concerned in the result of the contest. Mr. Cleveland is the standard bearer of free trade." England is "directly concerned in the result," but it so happens that American laborers and business are also.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Fairbanks in the Field.

The Editor of the Lyon County Times thus announces himself:

Should it be agreeable to the delegates to the County Republican Convention, we would like the nomination for Assemblyman. You will find our card under "Announcements." We thought we would be able to get rid of a few of the expense of a candidate for office, in that it would cost us nothing for newspaper work, but found out our mistake when our better half demanded $5 in advance, before allowing our card to go in.

Mrs. Fairbanks did the proper thing.

Mr. Fairbanks is a man well posted in the needs of his county and would make an excellent representation.

The Bellevue House.

The tourists at the Lake all speak enthusiastically of Mr. Kaiser's new hotel at Sunbeam. The place is bran new, everything is kept in apple pie order, and the table is supplied with all the dainties in the market.

The idea of having tents for guests who prefer that mode of living has taken immensely with the tourists, as they find it rare sport to enjoy all the luxuries of camping without any of the inconveniences, as they merely sleep in the tents and live at the hotel.

The place has become popular with the tourists the first season, and will be a favorite resort from this on.

Bears in the Mountains.

There are more bears in the mountains this year than ever before. The warm weather brings them down to Lake Tahoe, as the upper streams in the mountains have run dry.

Deer are also very plentiful. Several deer and bear have been shot back of McKinney's Landing, and hunters report excellent sport in Hell Hole, a favorite shooting locality a few miles back of McKinney's.
